Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Online events offers several benefits for participants who seek flexibility while attending events. Also, the COVID-19 has changed the things because now the students/participants can access events from anywhere according to their comfort which creates lack of attentiveness and lack of motivation as well Internet accessibility has resulted in an increment in the demand for online platform across the world. We know very well that online events have managed to attract lots of attention. But many of them face some challenges of online participation such as hindrances in their comprehensive learning experience and real-time doubt solution. The advantages are getting suppressed by the challenge during the process of learning.
